The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Edwina Mann from her cottage on the shore nearby, but was beyond control soon after. Lost in the fire were new beds and mattresses and a gas refrigerator besides some refinished furniture. See more details under Locke Mills, page five.

Bethel firemen arrived on the scene at the mill of P. H. Chabourne & Co. at South Bethel Wednesday afternoon in eight minutes after the call for the fire alarm was made. The record for a four mile run is an appreciated achievement for a volunteer fire company. This action saved the shavings building and the only damage was about $10 worth of shavings. The mill's equipment kept the blaze retarded until arrival of the town's truck.

FERNALD NAMED COUNTY FIA COMMITTEEMAN

Erville Fernald of Stow has been newly appointed as an Oxford County Farmers Home Administration Committeeman for a three year period of time according to Elwyn R. Morrow, County Supervisor for the FIA.

A dairyman, Mr. Fernald, operates a 30-cow herd and ships milk in a bulk tank. He has a successful hay and pasture program. Elwyn Morrow, local County Supervisor for FIA, says that Mr. Fernald's practical experience will enable him to make a real contribution to the County Committee's action when they review loan applications.

Mr. Fernald met last Tuesday, July 28, with other FIA Committeemen to review applications for FIA loans. Various loan types were reviewed at this meeting, among which was a loan to purchase a dairy farm, a loan to replace a present water supply for a dairy barn, and a loan to purchase a modern piece of farm machinery.

FIA loans are made to eligible farm people who are carrying out a successful farming operation. All these loans must be acted upon by the local County Committee of which Mr. Fernald is a new member. Mr. Fernald succeeds Edmund Smith of Bethel who completed his term of office on June 30. An FIA Committeeman can serve for only a three year term of office. ## Can You Stop In Time?

It takes more than the distance between goal posts on a football field (100 yards) to stop a car traveling at 60 miles per hour under the best driving conditions. 4-H Club members point out. At 60 mph, a car travels 88 feet per second. There's not much "time" to come to a dead stop upon approaching a tractor or other slow-moving farm machinery.

"Highway safety is everyone's responsibility," 4-H leaders declare, and during the summer when traffic is at its peak the obligation becomes greater. The devastating fact that three out of four traffic fatalities occur in rural areas makes the 4-H Safety program the "number one crop" for nearly a million conscientious club members.

Statistics reveal that there are more teen-age drivers on the highways today than ever before.

It is also true that drivers under 20 years of age have a worse safety record than older drivers. So each 4-H boy and girl enrolled in the safety project is encouraged to become a "self-policing committee of one." These 4-H'ers make certain that the family car, truck, and tractor are in safe operating condition at all times.

For the past 15 years the 4-H Safety program has been supported nationally by General Motors, which among other things provides incentive awards for top ranking club members in each state. The awards consist of $400 college scholarships, all-expense paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, medals of honor, and plaques. The program is under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

A really good driver

never takes anything for granted! Every driver should expect the unexpected and be prepared to react fast. Quick thinking in a pinch is a lifesaver. So don't take anything for granted. Overconfidence can dull the sharpest reflexes. Many of the 37,000 people killed on our highways last year might still be alive if good drivers never relied on chance. # SPEAR FISHING IS UNLAWFUL IN MAINE INLAND WATERS

The Maine Fish and Game Department has been receiving an increasing number of inquiries from skin divers and other persons interested in spear fishing, asking for a ruling on the subject. According to present Maine law, spear fishing in inland waters of the state is unlawful.

In the fish and game laws, spears are classed with other generally unlawful devices such as explosives, grapnels, gaffs, set lines, etc. Violations of the law are punishable by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $500, and costs, for each offense, plus $1 for each fish unlawfully taken, caught, killed, or in possession of any violator of the law.

It is hoped that this clarification of the law may save an unintentional violator of the law from unnecessary embarrassment and expense.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

TIN PEDDLER

Half a century ago, the annual visit of the tin peddler was an exciting event. Each year as summer worked along, children began to watch for the elderly man, the red wagon, and the two white horses with shining harnesses and red tassels swinging on the bridles.

The peddler was a man of integrity and dignity. An Armenian, he had lost his family in a tragic massacre when he was a young man. He was friendly and full of fun, but Father used to say the sadness of him was in his eyes. Sometimes he stayed overnight at the farm, and in the evening would bring out his beloved violin and play haunting music.

The peddler's cart was a store on wheels. On the outside of the van were brooms, baskets, firsins, tin tubs and wash boilers. The van had hinged sides that opened to display bolts of cloth, lace, tinware, lanterns, spices and dried fruits. There were small boxes of colored ribbons, needles, thread, beeswax, scissors, razors and jackknives. There were hand-painted chamber sets and wash basins, lamps, and fancy glass dishes.

The old peddler was a trader. He took Mother's rag bag of linen; he took butter and eggs. Trading was important, of course, but he brought news of friends and relatives living in towns miles away; he had messages to deliver from them. The peddler was a friend and he never spread malicious gossip. And when the trading was done, children always knew what would happen. He reached under the front seat and brought out a red and green striped bag of hard candies for each child.

The tin peddlers are gone. An era ended when rubber tires replaced metal rims on wooden wheels. But there are still those who remember the old tin peddler, his heaped cart, and the friendly man who brought a touch of adventure and excitement to farms along country roads.

MAN'S RECIPE

SETH'S SPICY OATMEAL COOKIES

From your letters I am afraid that some of you have wrong ideas. I am not arbitrary, dogmatic, opinionated or anything of the sort. There is a difference between being definite in one's ideas and being arbitrary. I should think it would help a girl if her man tells her what he likes and what he does not.

If course, it may churn your self control a bit when the neighbors tell you that what you are doing is wrong. When Aunt Martha comes to visit, you are never at ease until she announces the date she is leaving.

I like hot, crispy muffins for breakfast—muffins that are baked up in the oven. With a dollop of tangy-sweet rhubarb marmalade, they hit the spot. I didn't have this recipe evolved when Country Flavor Cookbook was published, but it has become a favorite among friends and neighbors.

Use one cup flour, one third cup sugar, one half teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, one fourth teaspoon cloves, one third cup shortening, one egg beaten, one cup rich milk, one and a third cups fresh oats firm-packed.

Preheat oven to 400. Sift flour, sugar, salt, baking powder and spices into bowl and mix. Cut in the shortening until the mixture is like coarse crumbs. Mix in egg and milk. Add oats and mix well but do not beat.

Fill greased muffin tin two thirds full. Bake at 400 for 24-26 minutes, or until done.

LIFE LINES

by Col. Ralph T. Miller of The Salvation Army

THE RAINBOW BRIDGE

Richard Wagner's opera, "The Rhine-Gold," is not staged as often as it should be, at least in this country. For, entirely apart from the majesty of its music, it has a great message of hope, much needed in this time of despair.

In the closing scene, Wotan, King of the Gods, leads the other gods to the edge of a great abyss. To the accompaniment of shimmering music from the orchestra, the clouds begin to rise. Beyond the other side of the gorge, they see the gleaming towers of Valhalla. There it is, beautiful in its perfection, but as out of reach as if it were a thousand miles away.

Then Donner, the thunder God, steps forward and swings his hammer in the air. There is a crash of thunder from the orchestra, and then a series of rising chords of hope. Out of the mist there gradually appears a rainbow bridge spanning the chasm. As the curtain falls, Wotan and the others march across this rainbow bridge to the city of Hope.

Life is like that.

No matter how low the Prudential Son may sink in the swamp of the far country, he can never forget that there is a golden city, which should be his home.

The one purpose of religion in human life is to do just that. To build a bridge from the life that we know to the life that we know we should have, but cannot attain by our own strength.

May you, in your own chosen hours of worship, this week find that Rainbow Bridge to Valhalla.

Plastic Bag Safety Rules

NEW YORK—At a recent meeting held here to warn the public about the potential dangers from misuse of disposable plastic bags, the baby's crib was pointed to as the greatest source of danger resulting from suffocation by plastic bags.

By James J. Gifford, left, head of the American Pediatric Society, and the American Academy of Pediatrics, and the department of health, education and welfare, and the department of health, education and welfare, the danger of the child's crib was pointed to as the greatest source of danger resulting from suffocation by plastic bags.

For Gifford said that when an infant lies on its stomach, as prescribed by pediatricians, its face may come in contact with the disposable plastic bag, which may result in the child's suffocation.

He reported that each year approximately 10,000 children under the age of 15 die as a result of suffocation. The plastic bags of disposable plastic bags are used as a covering for the child's face, and the child's face may come in contact with the bag, which may result in the child's suffocation.

He stressed that one of the first steps in the safety of a child's crib is to use a disposable plastic bag, which is used as a covering for the child's face, and the child's face may come in contact with the bag, which may result in the child's suffocation.

WORLD BOOK LISTS NEW
WORDS IN ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Even Noah Webster might be bugged* today if he ran across a traxle.... And what could he possibly say to a hoopster?

Americans seem to manufac- ture words like these for every gadget or social trend they pro- duce. For the benefit of the man or woman who doesn't read dictionaries, The World Book Encyclopedia has compil- ed a list of some of the words and phrases that entered our language in 1958.

"Traxle," for example, is an automobile design in which the transmission is in the rear in- stead of against the engine.

"Hoopster" is a person, usu- ally a child or his weight- worried mother, who uses a hu- la hoop.

Economists have brought clarity and imagination to the mysterious workings of sup- ply and demand with the phrase "bottoming out," which means reaching the lowest point in a recession.

The hotel has graduated from motel to "boatel"—that's a mo- tel built over the water, where people can moor their boats during the night.

If you have a heavy foot on the gas pedal, you obviously suffer from "roadomania." And if you wheel your groceries out to the car and forget to return the cart to the store, you're guilty of "cartnapping."

Science has introduced the word "megacorpse," meaning a million dead persons, such as could result from nuclear war- fare.

An example of making a silk purse out of a sow's ear is "in- formational site." That's the area at the side of the road where a billboard extols "Moth- er's Maloney's Pickled Pres- erves" or welcomes you to town with "Warning: Speed Controlled by Radar."

The height of simplicity is "pinch effect." That's the con- traction that results from the mag- netic interaction set up by parallel flow of currents in plasma (highly ionized gas).

"v. l., to annoy or con- fuse; coined by the "Beat Gen- eration."

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Widows and veterans receiving nonservice-connected pensions from the Veterans Administration need only count that portion of their Social Security check paid them as primary beneficiaries, when totaling their annual income for VA, it was explained today.

M. L. Stoddard, manager of VA Center, Togus, said that numerous cases have come to light lately, where pensioners have penalized themselves by counting the additional Social Security benefits they receive for their dependents. Social Security payments for primary beneficiaries and individual dependents are combined into one monthly check.

Stoddard cited the case of a widow with three or more children, who was receiving from Social Security the maximum family benefits of $254 (based on an average monthly wage of $350). By multiplying $254 by 12 months, she convinced herself that her annual income had exceeded VA's $2700 income limit for a pensioner for one or more dependents.

The widow's portion of the Social Security payment was only $87 a month. That is the only portion that should be considered as income. Stoddard said that the difference between $87.00 and the $254 monthly check is paid her in behalf of her children, and is not counted by VA as income.

When the Social Security Administration makes an award, the original notice states the respective amounts the primary beneficiary and the individual dependents will receive.

Stoddard pointed out that there are other cases similar to the widow's, where a veteran is receiving Social Security disability or retirement benefits and receiving additional benefits for a wife. He should report to VA as income, only portion of Social Security benefits he is receiving in his own right.
